ABOUT WORK SHOP

One day workshop On Stream Of Consciousness in Short Story Writers. Stream of consciousness writing refers to a narrative technique where the thoughts and emotions of a narrator or character are written out such that a reader can track the fluid mental state of these characters. Stream of consciousness writing allows authors to provide a more intimate portrayal of their subjects. It prevents them from being confined to physical descriptions or accounts of spoken dialogue, which was a standard issue literary technique prior to the rise of the stream of consciousness approach. Via stream of consciousness writing, readers are able to track characters' thoughts in real time, thus enabling them to understand not only what a character does but why they do it.

By reflecting the natural flow of thoughts through a character's mind, stream of consciousness aims to give readers the feeling of being inside the character's head. Putting the character's thought process into words helps to advance the plot and shed light on the character's motivation. However, stream of consciousness is a powerful tool when the theme of the story lies not in the events of the story, but a character's perspective of the events. A stream of consciousness narrative is one of the best ways to really capture human emotion in writing.

ABOUT THE WORKSHOP

One day workshop on Recent Trends in Language and Literature. It aims at Task-based learning is based on a simple premise that students learn when they collaborate on meaningful and communication-based tasks. But what will task-based learning look like in 2021? Many task-based learning activities simply lack a purposeful and helpful connection to the real world. As the third most widely spoken language in the world, English is widely spoken and taught in over 118 countries and is commonly used around the world as a trade language or diplomatic language. It is the language of science, aviation, computers, diplomacy and tourism. Learning emerges more easily and efficiently through active participation by the learners. In the existing scenario of English language teaching in India, efforts to make the learners more involved in the learning process is emerging. Still, there is a lot of scope for improvement. It should be ensured that the teaching learning process is not passive. Recent studies have proved that Task-Based Language Teaching (TBLT).

ABOUT THE SEMINAR

One day seminar on Rhetorical Linguistics & Modern Grammar. Grammar is also a characterization of how language is conventionally used to convey meanings that are agreed upon. Rhetoric, on the other hand, tells us how to use language effectively to achieve our purposes: to persuade someone about our beliefs, to move them to action, to convey emotion effectively, and so on. Modern Grammar is the study of the theories and application of English language structural Systems as developed since the onset of the Early Modern English period. The study focuses on American English texts—spoken and written—and applies traditional, structural, and modern linguistic. Rhetoric and composition are overtly political, dealing with large and important issues and how language is involved. Applied linguistics, on the other hand, is supposedly neutral or pragmatic in its focus on language.

About the Seminar

One day Seminar on Challenges and Opportunities in ELT in Postcolonial Era. Postcolonial scholars have pointed out that when two cultures sharing unequal power confront each other, the weaker culture seeks different alternatives to meet the situation. If imitation and internalization of the values of the dominant culture is one of the responses, to struggle to retain its identity by turning to its roots is another need to learn a language emerges from the point of view of its adaptability, effectiveness, utility, universality and ability to teach. Communication is a communication with others of thoughts, ideas and opinions. The two-way communication mechanisms are inspiring, educating, advising, and alert, ordering, changing behavior and stabilizing good relationships in order to make meaningful contact and knowing one another. Communication is successful when a communicator is sufficiently able to interact with integrity, clarity, frankness and dynamism. Communication is necessary for close relationships of empathy in a society and for the transfer of human beings, resources and thoughts from one position to another. This process involves receiving and responding to the induction that will act as feedback

ABOUT THE WORKSHOP

Workshop on The Interface Between Language And Literature, Identity And Impact. Language and Literature are two interrelated concepts. Language can be simply defined as the study of sounds, words, and sentences whereas literature is the study of written work. The existence of literature is solely based on language. The main difference between language and literature is that language deals with both spoken and written aspects whereas literature mainly deals with written work. According to this, cultural identity as expressed in literature is re-established through constant dialogue with other cultures and literatures. This dialogic nature pre-determines that the study of cultural identity and/in literature is best performed in and with the tools of the discipline of comparative literature

About the workshop

Workshop on life and Literature allows a person to step back in time and learn about life on Earth from the ones who walked before us. We can gather a better understanding of culture and have a greater appreciation of them. We learn through the ways history is recorded, in the forms of manuscripts and through speech itself. The impact of literature in modern society is undeniable. Literature acts as a form of expression for each individual author. Some books mirror society and allow us to better understand the world we live in. For the majority of people around the world, our first serious encounter with literature comes from school. Reading and writing has been drilled in all of us from an early age and this is set in motion with the start of examinations. Literature is the only form of expression which has been the part and parcel of the human life.
